

<http://www.forbes.com/sites/fathom/2014/06/21/pack-the-best-of-delhi-in-one-day/>

Forbes | New Posts | Most Popular
Highest-Paid Athletes | Lists
Most Powerful Women | Video
Highest-Paid Athletes

12 Stocks to BUY for 2014

Search companies, people and lists

Log in | Sign up | Connect < f t in > | Help

6/21/2014 @ 9:30AM | 800 views

Pack The Best Of Delhi In One Day

By Vandana Verma for Fathom / Delhi isn't a city as much as a sprawling cacophony of voices, footpaths, and dust. Oh so much dust. The outward expansion of my city has created a beast in which there's way too much to see and do, from parks dotted with Mughal-era tombs to bars overlooking 11th-century minarets and urban villages that are splitting at the seams with restaurants and boutiques. You'll need a full 24 hours, a spare stomach, and teleportation abilities to cram it all in.

Foie gras-stuffed galawat. Photo: Courtesy of Indian Accent

DINNER WITH AN INDIAN ACCENT

It's been a heavy day of eating, but it's not a perfect day without dinner at the shrine to modern-Indian cooking, Indian Accent at the Manor. The staff are incredible and really know the menu, and I order the panko-crusted green chili stuffed with goat cheese mousse (a personal favorite). Gaurav loves amusing twists on food, and foie gras-stuffed galawat kabab served with a smear of strawberry and green chili chutney are the wittiest. Of course there are wine pairings.