

THE WORLD OF FINE WINE

The World of Fine Wine has announced the winners of its inaugural World's Best Wine Lists awards. Some 750 restaurants from around the world won a one-, two-, or three-star award. Only 200 wine lists have made it into the top three-star category. A judging panel comprising leading figures such as Gerard Basset MW MS, Ch'ng Poh Tiong, Elin McCoy, Andrew Jefford, Francis Percival, and Tom Stevenson assessed more than 4,000 wine lists before coming up with the final shortlist for the different categories and overall winners. The judges also recognized with a special Jury Prize several lists that show distinctive character and flair or are particularly strong in a specific wine style.

Indian Accent at The Manor

Award Level: ★★★

Executive chef Manish Mehrotra is looking to create “Indian food for the 21st century” at his Indian Accent restaurant in New Delhi’s luxury The Manor Hotel.

And his “marriage of global ingredients and techniques with the flavors and traditions of India,” makes full use of a wide-ranging cellar on his Chef Tasting Menu, where baingan bharta cornetto, goat’s cheese butter is paired with Villa Maria Private Bin Sauvignon Blanc, and potato sphere chaat, white pea ragda churan ka karela, quinoa puffs, and bitter melon crisp, is served with Moët & Chandon Brut Impérial.

The main list covers a good spread of styles and producers, with top domestic producer Sula featuring alongside global names such as Gaja, Guigal, Château Margaux, Stag’s Leap, Schlumberger, and Yalumba, making this one of the best wine lists in India.
